DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ezawa (US5142657).

Regarding claims 1 and 5, Ezawa shows an information reproduction apparatus comprising:

- A reading device for reading information recorded on a medium shown as a CPU
 (13) in fig.1
- A decoding device for decoding information read by the reading device (32) in fig.5 (col.5 II.44-53)
- A storage device for holding decoded information shown as a memory (14) in fig.3 (col.3 l.68 - col.4 l.7)
 - An output controlling device for sequentially reading out and outputting information (col.2 II.44-55)
- A designating device designating a reproduction start position is shown in fig. 14

Application/Control Number: 09/764,083

Art Unit: 2616

 A repetitive reproduction controlling device and repetition reproduction range setting device are shown in fig. 15 (col.16 II.31-46) as also discussed in claims 2 and 6.

Regarding claims 2 and 6, Ezawa shows the repetition reproduction range setting device setting a range from a target position on the storage device (col.16 ll.31-34)

Regarding claims 3 and 7, Ezawa shows the size of the repetition range in fig.7 (col.39-44)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ezawa et al. on view of Lane et al. (US5377051).

Although Ezawa teaches a reproduction range setting device, what is not taught by him and is taught by Lane is that the storage medium stores video compression information including first image information for intra-frame encoding (col.6 l.60-col.7 l.8) and second image information for performing forward and backward prediction (col.6 ll.50-55). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to utilize compression information to reduce the amount of data needed to represent images and sound.
